

URGES CO-OPERATION BETWEEN PRODUCERS IN VARIOUS LINES

Nordman Statement Sets Out Aims of Second Wisconsin Products Show

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—By The Associated Press.—Producing concerns in Wisconsin, as elsewhere, are beginning to realize the importance of mutual cooperation and interest in each other's business as a means of promoting advancement for all concerned in the business world, according to Edward Nordman, commissioner of the state department of markets in a statement Friday setting forth the aims and purposes of the Wisconsin Products Exposition to be held in Milwaukee, Dec. 1-8.

Mr. Nordman declares it is not only important to the state that the mutual interests of the various producers be established, but that there also is opportunity for direct sale of hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of Wisconsin commodities. Plans are being made to make the show even better than that of last year when, the commissioner says, it was generally conceded to have been one of the largest and most successful expositions of its kind in America.

"The object of this exposition," says Mr. Nordman, "is to bring the producers of all kinds of products and those of all shades of opinion together under one roof for one week so that they will be compelled to see something of each other's problems and to acquire first-hand knowledge of their mutual relationship in the affairs of industry as a whole. It is safe to say that this last proposition is the least understood and the most important of all factors that make for all progress."

"Now these producers are learning that other producers are the outlet of market for their goods or services and there is no prospect of substantial prosperity for one unless it is enjoyed by the other also."

Large increases in sales of Wisconsin products are expected as the result of the holding of the December exposition, according to Mr. Nordman.

BY JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT

NEW YORK.—And now that we've said good-bye to mother on her way downtown to the office let's go over in the corner and sit by grandmother while she knits.

My word! Grandmother isn't knitting. As a matter of fact grandmother isn't in the corner at all. She's put on her flexible arch shoes and her little cloche hat with the natty quill and gone off to have a caper of her own.

"And she has a perfect right to it," says Mrs. Minna Dennes, grandmother herself. "Grandma has learned to do all sorts of useful things in the home. There isn't a reason why she shouldn't carry them into the outside world and make a career of them."

By which Mrs. Dennes means machinery, for machinery is Mrs. Dennes' specialty. It was even back in the old days when she had only her husband and little daughter to think about.

Did the lawn mower break down or the faucet need a new washer or the kitchen stove show signs of blowing up? Mrs. Dennes fixed it. One day she found herself alone—her husband dead, her daughter married. Mrs. Dennes didn't want to sit in the corner and knit.

Then she remembered what a hand she'd been at fixing the lawn mower in the old days.

"I went over to a nearby machine shop, put on a pair of blue overalls and watched the men work," she says. "Then I started doing things myself."

Now she sells machinery, is secretary and treasurer of her company and is said to have a better knowledge of stationary machinery than any man going. Some of her achievements are being shown this week at the New York League of Business and Professional Women's second annual women's activities exhibit.

"I just amplified on the thing I did best when I was keeping house," she says. "Grandmothers aren't on to themselves. It's no harder to put a motor together than to stir up a pudding for dinner."

FRAUD WARNING!

House-to-house solicitors are claiming to sell Phoenix hosiery in various sections of the United States. Sometimes they show alleged credentials in which the word "Phoenix" is prominently displayed. Their plan is to secure a dollar deposit, promising that the hosiery will be sent by mail, and the balance collected by the postman. And that is the last their victims ever hear of them. They pocket the dollar and disappear. In a few instances, however, they have delivered some makeshift hosiery, worth about half the price.

These canvassers are outright frauds, for Phoenix hosiery is sold only through retail stores. As Phoenix is a leader in sales everywhere, and is probably the best known line of hosiery in the world, these peddlers are trading upon that reputation to defraud the buying public.

REWARD

United States Post Office Inspectors and the Pinkerton National Detective Agency are now searching for these defrauders, and are working on several such cases.

We will pay liberally for information that will lead to the arrest of any of these unauthorized solicitors. If you are approached by any person offering Phoenix hosiery and seeking a deposit of money, please notify a Phoenix dealer, or your city's "Better Business Bureau," or if there is a Pinkerton agency in your city, notify them. Also telegraph us collect.

We issue this warning as a protection to the public, as well as ourselves, that no one may innocently purchase imitations for genuine Phoenix hosiery.

Unscrupulous and fraudulent house-to-house hosiery canvassers are daily mulcting the American public out of thousands of dollars. Beware of them.

LAD UP FOR ME

eousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall

Politics

PROBABLY most people are confused over the situation in Bavaria and the rest of Germany. The attempts of press dispatches to elucidate events and personalities as they arise are contradictory. We are told that Gustave von Kahr, dictator of Bavaria, is a man of pronounced monarchist leanings and a former supporter of the separation movement in that state. In the same dispatch he is said to be co-operating with the Berlin government to preserve the integrity of the reich; also to be endeavoring to suppress the "ultra-nationalist" movement. Hitler, leader of the Bavarian Fascists, is reported actuated by indignation at the republic's surrender to France, and also to be leading the separatist movement—although that has been accepted for months as a French maneuver to weaken Germany and strengthen her own Rhine frontier. It doesn't seem to make sense—until one recalls that there is a tremendous element of politics involved.

Von Kahr, Stresemann, Hitler, Knilling—all of these men are politicians as well as presumably patriots and idealists. No doubt they want what is best for Germany and their own communities as they see it, and also no doubt they see the best chance for Germany to include themselves in the seat of authority. The confusion with which the situation impresses outside observers is no doubt due to the fact that we are ignorant of the basic inter-play of politics, compounded of local issues, past performances and platforms, and speculation as to the future course of German events. The maze is doubtless much less complex to the people of Germany.

What we are seeing and failing to understand is merely an example of the spectacle, so familiar in our own and other politics, in which politicians of every stripe are endeavoring to exploit a given situation for their own and their party's advantage. As we know, this involves considerable agility, and the effort of the politicians at such a crisis to square the exigent policy of the moment with past performances and principles makes consistency rather a matter of verbal acrobatics than of logic.

In our own affairs, where we know the background and the record, we are not puzzled nor fooled by these upheavals. We make unconscious allowances for the personal equation; we know our politicians and generally realize what they are up to, even though to foreigners things may look like nothing so much as aimless muddle. And that's about the situation in Germany today. A big event has occurred, and the politicians are making hay while the sun shines.

If this be thought a frivolous commentary on a grave situation, perhaps it may be added that were we not too close to the trees to see our own forest we would realize that thus and no other way are handled our own affairs of the greatest magnitude. It is the immemorial custom of government, and popular governments are most addicted to this technique.

Peace Education

THE world conference on education held in San Francisco during June and July laid the foundations for world wide education for peace. Its work consisted of the most significant steps yet taken relating to the fundamental fact that war originates more in a state of mind than in concrete issues arising from time to time. In the development of the national spirit the textbooks and histories of every country have contained briefs for that nation's past whether right or wrong, and in self justification, all have misrepresented other countries that at one time or another have been adversaries. There has been the thought that self defense requires the creation of a national partisanship which alone could be established by making the citizen a potential belligerent from childhood up.

Probably the most important recommendation of the congress, which covered wide scope, was that relating to international co-operation in providing fair textbooks that would make for peace instead of for war. Following we quote the specific recommendation of the congress in this particular:

1. That an exchange of textbooks in use be effected between all countries.
2. That these textbooks be studied especially with a view to correcting misrepresentations about any country and to furnishing material that will foster international friendship.
3. That a series of international readers be prepared, based upon the biographies and the best literature of all nations.
4. That especially history, civics, and geography textbooks (including international law) emphasize the interdependence of all members of the human family, and the necessity of peace as an essential condition of the highest human development; and that suggestions be formulated for inculcating the same principle through the teaching of science and arts.
5. That suggestions be formulated for the most effective use of all forms of visual education in the promotion of international justice and good will.

In its agenda the conference laid down the following as a foundation:

The greatest task which lies ahead of the schools in all lands is that of preparing the way for a new order of international justice, friendship and good will. Upon the instruction of the youth of the nations lies the responsibility of enlarging the national conceptions and promoting good will among the nations of the earth. Entirely new values and standards of judging need to be created. The emphasis must be placed upon the valor and patriotism of peace. If it is possible to set up a series of ideals such as a nation should become and to teach them to the rising generation, these ideals could eventually be realized.

The conference also endorsed propaganda for international machinery to carry out the world peace program. It included any and every sort of international league, association, or court, or organization for international agreement and for working out human welfare as an international problem. Educational attaches would be provided in all foreign embassies. Correspondence between school children of different nations would be promoted. The revision of histories to eliminate misinterpretation and injustices would be pursued. The creation of higher international ideals would be handled through co-operative measures relating to industry, economics and commerce. All told, the conference reached a comprehensive, constructive program which, if followed out, might go far toward laying the basis of international justice and good will, the establishing of which is the ultimate goal of all peace propaganda whether relating to the mental side of the problem or to the substitution of the mechanics of peace for the mechanics of war.

Peggy Sells Hats

By JANE OSBORN

It was the morning after the dance at the Northfield Country Club and the usual sort of post-mortem discussion was going on around the late breakfast at the Randolph country home.

"You was the girl with squint eyes and angel sleeves—talked baby talk and come with Frank Drew?" Bob Randolph was asking.

"She hasn't squint eyes at all," protested Clara, "his sister. That's Rebecca Bates—loads of money and terribly good nature. The boys have rented a place out the North road. We think she's charming. But, my dear," Clara addressed her house guest, Olive Dray, "did you see peevish Maud Landis was? And if she does want to cut out Rebecca Yates and all her millions she really ought to wear something besides that horrible green tulle."

"Say, hats," coughed Bob, "Maud didn't look peeved at all. I thought she looked great."

"Oh, you men!" giggled Olive. "You always pick up how the girls with red hair. That green tulle was a little outre," she conceded, "still, tulle is smart."

"And who in blazes," queried the other house guest, George Kelly, "was the little lady with the long black earrings and the bobbed hair? She certainly is some kisser. Tried to get a dance with her just for the fun of it, but couldn't get a look in. They say she's promised for three dances ahead. She's—"

"Oh, that's Doris Pater. A widow. But she's frightfully common. She does terrible things in the real estate business. Fanny!"

Bob had acquired enough courage by this time to ask the question that had been nagging in his mind ever since the evening before.

By the way, he began, to make it sound a little more dignified, "I saw you, dark eyes, light hair, who came with Bob Dawson? I just happened to notice her."

"Say that was Peggy Nelson," said Clara. "Peggy's a dear, though probably you wouldn't find her attractive. Her don't like her sister red. I did see her do something, so she started a hat shop. I think it was so brave of her. You see she couldn't teach, as she's never been to college, and she had to do something, and we're all boasting her. She calls it the Peggy shop—"

"Is on Walker street, just off Main and Olive dear, if you want to buy any hats or know any one who does, please do give her a chance. Try to get her to teach, and her shop is very attractive."

"Walker street, off Main," Bob Randolph rehearsed to himself, and then he turned to Clara and said, "I had learned all he wished to know."

The fact was that he had first noticed Peggy Nelson when the dance was held over with his own dance, taken with the girls of his own set, and when he had tried on three occasions to look up some one who would consent to the dark-eyed young blonde he had not been able to find her. It was not apparent to Bob that along with his own lack of popularity with the men.

The next day Randolph took a walk along Walker street near Main just to see what the place was like. He walked past it twice. Then he stopped and looked in the windows and before the week was out he ventured within the gray curtained doors. This took much courage. Peggy, dressed in a long, clinging frock of gray, was preoccupied with a voluminous finger seated before a gray dressing table trying on garden hats. An assistant asked him if he wanted a hat. "Yes, I want to buy a hat," he said.

"What kind of a hat?" asked the young woman.

"It doesn't make much difference. I want it for—"

"As a matter of fact there was no one for whom I was buying a hat. My sister was his only woman relative and obviously she would think him insane if he started buying hats for her. Still, he was eager to buy. Peggy, in fact his own sister, had urged him to—at least at breakfast that day she had urged every one to help her."

Still, he was confused and confusing dialogue. Bob Randolph bought and paid thirty dollars for a hat. When the young woman asked for the dress he gave that of his apartment in town.

Bob Randolph found himself thinking of Peggy Nelson sometimes as he had seen her at the Country Club dance, but oftener as he had seen her in her fitted dress. He bought a hat. It occurred to him, was a charming occupation for a woman, especially a hat shop in soft French grays and shades of blue and green. But of course she needed a boost. If he were married he would certainly persuade his wife to buy her hats there, and he would urge her to have many. While thinking thus one day he wandered again toward Walker street, entered the store and stood wondering what to do next, when Peggy herself, with her best saleswomanly manner, came toward him.

"May I do something for you?" she asked sweetly but impersonally.

"I'd like to buy a hat," said Bob Randolph.

"For your wife?" asked Peggy sweetly.

"Goodness, no. It's for my—my mother."

"Then you would like something a little—shall I say, sedate?"

"Not too sedate," he said.

"Here is something very effective," said Peggy, lifting a soft-brimmed velvet hat with feathers drooping on one side, and as she tried it on her own golden hair. "See," she said, "do you like it?"

Bob looked not at the hat but straight at Peggy. "Immensely," he said, and then: "I'll have that and another. Mother really needs some new hats. I've tried on several and finally suggested as quite appropriate an important little brown velvet tam o' shanter with a long silk tassel, which was bewitching on herself."

Another day Bob went to the Peggy shop and finding Peggy in asked for a hat.

"For your mother?" she asked.

"Why don't you bring her with you so she can make her own selections?"

"It's for my sister this time. She couldn't come. And Bob ordered two more hats that time. That made five hat boxes to be stowed away on the shelves of his wardrobe and closets. One evening he got the brown tam o' shanter out and posed it on the top of a standard lamp and tried to imagine the face of the brown-eyed blonde Peggy beneath. It was then that his sister made an unannounced visit before he had time even to get the tam o' shanter out of the way.

"You're a girl calling on you," announced his sister. "You needn't deny it, because I see her hat and she has her reputation as a proper bachelor. Bob Randolph had to confess. Then he showed his entire collection of hats."

"You know you said we ought to help her along," he defended, "and of course she doesn't know what and what. 'Doesn't she?' scoffed Clara. 'That's one reason I dropped in. I met Peggy the other day, and she told me about it. She asked if I was your only sister, and then said you'd bought a hat for me, and that you'd bought two for your mother and some for an aunt or something. She said she thought it would be so considerate of his sister and aunts and mothers and things would make a perfect husband. Isn't that killing? And I told her you'd better get married to have some one to keep you from being foolish.'"

Bob thought for a moment, then he said: "You seem to know her fairly well. Why don't you invite her out for a week-end?" It would do her good. Maybe I'd be able to get down to work. She was already thinking of the pleasure of having Peggy for a sister-in-law instead of of some selfish vamp like that Doris Pater. It was at that first visit of Peggy's at the Randolphs that Bob proposed and was promptly accepted.

"And now," said Peggy after they had all laughed over Bob's hat buying escapade, "now may I borrow some of the hats you bought? You know they say a shoemaker's children always go barefoot. Well, I am simply suffering for a new hat."

MICHIGAN TO SHARE 32ND HEADQUARTERS WITH BADGER STATE

Decision to Divide Command Reached at Conference of State Adjutant Generals

MADISON, Wis.—The 32nd division headquarters will be equally divided between the states of Michigan and Wisconsin, Ralph M. Immell, State adjutant general, announced on Thursday.

The decision was reached at a conference of Mr. Immell and the adjutant general of Michigan at the headquarters of the sixth corps area, Chicago, on Wednesday. Mr. Immell said.

At the time of the original allocation of the troops within the Sixth corps area, Michigan was given the entire 32nd division headquarters including the commanding general, while Wisconsin had been given the headquarters of the 22nd cavalry division.

For the present, Wisconsin will have equal representation with Michigan in the organization of the 32nd division headquarters and it was agreed by the two adjutant generals that in the event of a vacancy in the office of division commander, each state is to submit the name of its senior officer to the militia bureau and the chief of the bureau will make the selection. Wisconsin retains the headquarters of the 32nd cavalry division.

Lt. Col. Charles R. Williams, Camp Douglas, has been designated as quartermaster of the 32nd division in addition to his duties as state quartermaster and United States property and disbursing officer for the state of Wisconsin.

A number of staff positions in the headquarters of the 32nd division will be announced by the adjutant general's department in the near future, General Immell announced.

PEARLS SENSITIVE TO DISEASE

After many years of experimenting Senator Barsanti, of Argentine, has arrived at the conclusion that Oriental pearls are animated beings, and that those which have lost their color and lustre and for this reason are called "dead" are nothing but diseased pearls.

"Oriental pearls," says Senator Barsanti, "are easily infected with contagion with any of the human diseases, and those most dangerous to pearls are the diseases of specific character. Mercury is the greatest enemy of the pearl. A string of pearls whose wearers have been subject to a mercury treatment is certain to be infected to a point where it will turn to the shade of lead."

"Even a lack of light and air will have a saddening effect upon pearls and cause them to lose their color. When this is the reason for their change they can be restored to life by being worn by a perfectly healthy person of either sex."

This authority asserts that pearls whose aspect indicates the beginning of disease may usually be restored by treating them with a soft cloth soaked in chemically prepared alcohol. This destroys the infectious germ, provided it has not penetrated further than the surface.

He says that when disease has penetrated to the very heart or centre of the pearl it is really dead.

According to his theory, the pearl contains a mysterious sap which, like human blood, fights to the very last ditch against any bacteria finding their way into its circulation.

SOCIALISTS OF YUCATAN MAY NOMINATE CALLES

MERIDA, Yucatan.—Yucatan socialists are planning to place a candidate in the field at the 1924 presidential elections. Leading elements of socialist party of the southeast, under the leadership of the party's president, Felipe Carrillo Puerto, governor of the state, have issued a call for a nominating convention to be held here early in September, which delegates representing socialist organizations in Yucatan, Campeche, Tabasco and Chiapas will attend.

Governor Carrillo Puerto recently visited General P. Elias Calles, secretary of government in the Obregon cabinet and probable presidential candidate, inviting him to attend the convention. General Calles has been convalescing at Soledad de la Mota, a ranch in Tamaulipas belonging to his son, his absence coinciding with the sessions of the pre-recognition conference.

NAVY COMPLETES TEN-YEAR SURVEY OF CUBAN WATERS

Almost Unknown Waters Surrounding Island Mapped in Interest of Shipping

WASHINGTON.—The United States Navy has just completed another chapter of a ten year job of great interest and importance to mariners and hydrographers. It is the Cuba Survey, the mapping of the almost unknown water around that island, undertaken in the interests of American shipping as well as of national defense.

Ever since its inception, it has been the hope of the Navy Hydrographic Office to gather and make charts and records of the waters of the entire world, with especial stress laid on charting nearby areas. The Caribbean and the Gulf of Mexico are so full of unknown islands and large and small coral reefs and cays, that in 1906 the Cuban government asked this government to undertake a close survey of nearby waters. The Hydrographic Office undertook the job.

From 1907 to 1917 the waters along the Cuban coast from Cape Mayai, the easternmost extremity, to Cienfuegos, were sounded and mapped. The World War brought this activity to a close and it was not continued until early this year, when the personnel was reorganized and set to charting the section along the southwestern coast of the land from Cienfuegos to Cape San Antonio. In this area is the Gulf of Batabano, bordered by the Isle of Pines.

In making the survey small boats have run lines of soundings across local sectors, taking bearings from time to time upon triangulation signals erected on land and on shoals. A straight stretch of railway track along the Cuban coast was measured for a base line, and with these aids the naval officers have reported completion of the largest season's task of the entire survey. An area of 700 square miles was covered, 150 miles of shore line were plotted, and 6,500 miles of soundings were taken. Because of weather conditions, the survey season was limited to the period from the end of January to about August first.

Many important mistakes in previous charts were discovered. One shown as nearly awash was found to be actually 36 feet below the surface. The mother ship of the survey, drawing 18 feet of water, discovered a channel in which to approach Batabano, through water theretofore accounted too shallow for large vessels to use.

One of the interesting sections plotted by the surveyors was the "White Sea," so called on account of the unusually white sand found on the bottom, the reflection from which almost completely overcomes the natural blue color of the tropic water. It is said that Columbus found this stretch, and was so taken by its oddity that he took a bottle of the water back to Queen Isabella.

WORKMAN BREAK LEGS IN FALL.
EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—William Donohue, of this city, a laborer working on the Madison street bridge, fell about 80 feet when a scaffold collapsed, and broke both his legs at the hip.

Donohue fell into shallow water of the Chippewa river, but managed to drag himself about 100 feet to shore.

SHIPPING REVENUES SHOW GAIN.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gross revenue of the shipping board during July and August aggregated $4,437,699, an increase of 35 per cent over the same month of 1922, according to a statement issued by Chairman Farley.

How to tell for sure
—what oil your car needs

No. 6 in the series

Perhaps you own a Studebaker

(Big Six—Special Six—Light Six Models)

If you don't own a Studebaker, cut this out and hand it to a friend who does Studebaker engines are of the six-cylinder, four-stroke, cycle, vertical type. The cylinder head is detachable and the valve arrangement is of the L-head type.

Studebaker pistons are equipped with a special oil-return groove and oil drain holes which allow excess quantities of oil on the cylinder walls to drain back into the crank-case reservoir.

The Studebaker lubricating system is of the splash circulating type, employing a gear type oil pump located on the outside of the crank-case and considerably above the oil level.

The lubrication of the cylinder walls, the pistons, piston rings, and piston pin bearings depends upon an oil mist. This mist is created by splashes fitted on the lower side of the connecting rod bearings dipping into oil in troughs located under each cylinder bore.

A suitable lubricant for these engines must be of such body and character as to meet the operating temperature and distribution requirements.

Gargoyle Mobiloil "A" will provide adequate engine lubrication and thorough distribution during summer; its use is therefore recommended.

Because of the well-finished cylinder bores, close-fitting pistons and the adequate drainage of these pistons, Gargoyle Mobiloil "A" will not form objectionable carbon deposits and a thorough and efficient sealing of the piston rings will be assured.

Under winter operation, it is imperative that the oil used be of the proper fluidity to provide a positive priming of the elevated oil pump. Otherwise, failure of the pump to deliver oil to the engine will result.

Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic is of the proper body to assure positive priming of the Studebaker pump under winter operation. Because of its character and fluidity, it will atomize readily and thoroughly, thus providing proper distribution to all engine parts, even when freezing temperatures are experienced.

Gargoyle Mobiloil "A" and Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic respectively are best suited to the summer and winter lubrication requirements of these engines. Their use will insure maximum engine performance with a minimum of wear and depreciation.

we will tell you about the Correct Lubrication of several cars. Yours may be among them. Watch for it.

Directors chosen were: F. Collins of Kenosha, Mrs. Mary Morgan of Madison, Sister Bartholomea of Marshfield, Laura Norgaard of Green Bay, Mrs. Mildred Lucia of Eau Claire and Anna Thompson of Ashland.

The private section of the state nurses' association elected Mildred Fehlhaber Milwaukee, chairman; Torra Johnson, Eau Claire, vice chairman, and Elvira Neubauer, Milwaukee, secretary.

Miss Agnes Reid, president of the nurses' association, was elected a delegate to the American Nurses' association at the national convention in Detroit next June.

Resolutions were adopted by the association and league thanking the trustees of the Congregational church, the Rev. Mr. Robinson, the women of the church, Mayor Verchota, the La Crosse Floral company, the Automobile club, the sisters of St. Joseph's convent and the Misses Lutzewsen, Kimball and Nohr for the favors shown the associations during the convention.

A snake dance will be held on the field Saturday, between halves.

GOES THROUGH BRIDGE INTO RAGING FLOOD

stream. Platte river is more than a mile wide at a point near the wreck. Probably only four sleeping-car passengers lost their lives by drowning. From 20 to 24 passengers were rescued from the top of a sleeper which was partially submerged in the stream.

Neither the Cheyenne nor Casper sleepers went into the stream.

Rescue Score With Rope

A rescue train from Casper arrived at the scene of the wreck at 11 p. m. and immediately it was seen that the best chance of rescue was by means of a rope arrangement strung from the east bank. There were from twenty to twenty-four persons on top of the sleeper, all begging to be rescued.

The most thrilling portion of the rescue scene then ensued. A big cable rope obtained at the Big Muddy oil field, was thrown over to the marooned sleeper.

With the headlight of the locomotive of the relief train playing on the scene, the slow process of rescue in this manner proceeded. Men, women and children went hand over hand from the sleeper to the east bank, a distance of more than 150 feet. Several times women lost one hand hold of the rope, only to regain their balance and save themselves from dropping into the water.

After their perilous trip, several women fell into a dead faint and had to be carried to waiting cars. A man carried a baby in his arms from the marooned car to the bank and almost miraculously effected a rescue.

Of the injured brought to Casper early Friday morning, few are injured seriously.

It was still raining at the scene of the wreck early Friday morning. One sleeper was left on the track where it had been derailed at the brink of the stream.

Aside from two dim railroad arc lights, there was not a light visible at the scene of the wreck, and it was difficult to distinguish the location of the different cars in the stream or jammed up against the east bank.

Guard Against Looting

The police in Glen Rock have been notified and will co-operate in preventing any robbing of the bodies. Persons down the Platte river have been notified to be on the lookout for floating bodies or bodies washed ashore.

It is believed it will be 24 hours or more before any bodies can be taken from the submerged cars because of the high water. Most of those drowned may have been washed out of the cars because of the terrific current.

One of the lightest ticket sales in years was reported here by the Burlington and it is believed the final list of persons aboard the train will show not more than 70 missing.

Lloyd A. Jackson, an engineer, considers himself a lucky man today. Thursday he refused to answer the call boy, stating that he did not want to take his regular run out of Casper because of the heavy rainfall and dangerous condition of the roadbed. As a result, Eugene Spangler, not the regular engineer for this run, took out the Denver train. He is reported among the missing and it is believed that he was killed in the wreck when his locomotive plunged backwards into the stream.

Three Miles From Town

The scene of the disaster is an isolated spot on the Burlington, the nearest community being three miles away.

Dan J. McQuade of Denver, who was a passenger in the Denver sleeping car, was the first to give news of the disaster and he announced that in his opinion at least 100 lives were lost.

Other survivors were of the same opinion and the night Burlington dispatcher here when told of McQuade's statement, said that the loss "would be at least that."

Several men and women managed to crawl from the coaches which plunged into the river and, clinging to the top of the cars, screamed for help, according to Henry Wyatt of Casper, who was a passenger in a Pullman car, which plunged half way into the river and remained standing on end.

"Nothing could be done to save them," Mr. Wyatt declared, "as the river was a raging torrent."

No Confusion

"I had just started for my berth from the smoking compartment in the front end of the car when the wreck occurred. The train seemed to slacken its speed suddenly and then the car I was in toppled over, the front part resting on the bed of the river and the rear pointing up in the air.

"There was no scrambling or commotion, everybody just set to work opening the windows and getting out. A Pullman porter passed me a rope with which he dragged me up on the bank and I counted six others besides myself who escaped.

"It appeared that a cloudburst had occurred recently as the river receded two feet before I started back for Casper.

"One of the cars in the river about 25 feet from the bank appeared to be only half under water. Whether this was the chair car or the smoker, I do not know."

Need Derrick to Lift Cars

DENVER, Col.—No bodies can be recovered from the Burlington wreck near Casper, Wyo., until a derrick can lift the wrecked cars from the flood waters of Coal creek, according to a special receiver by the Denver Post, from Casper.

A special train that left Casper at 7:30 o'clock this morning returned later for a derrick. The crew reported that the waters still were rising, while rain and snow were falling alternately. The water is so high a derrick must be used to lift the cars from the stream, according to the crew.

Wyoming Rivers in Flood

SHERIDAN, Wyo.—Swollen by terrific rains, the water of Big Goose and Little Goose creeks left their banks early Friday morning and dashed over wide sections of Sheridan. Scores of residents in the river bottom sections began packing their belongings preparatory to moving to places of safety. The water is standing one to three feet in various sections of town.

to bring forth many squeals of delight as some of the lovely new models are exhibited.

The sheerest georgette in pale pastel shades and brilliant colors are made in simple styles that make one want to own dozens of them. These filmy dresses are heavily embellished with rhinestones giving them a scintillating touch.

Glistening and shimmering metallic fabrics embroidered in colors make beautiful creations. Long wide sashes will be noted on most of the new models for evening.

Metallic laces are being used more extensively than ever before. The laces are combined with velvets and silk materials. Tulle is still good for the young miss while heavy satins and velvets in draped models are popular with the matron.

Magneta is one of the newest colors for evening. It is a shade of red that is closely related to cerise. Many new greens are to be used as well as different blues with the French blue predominating.

All in all the season is showing the best looking clothes that have ever been designed to please a woman's heart.

STATE WINS ITS 5-YEAR FIGHT TO CONVICT FIREBUGS

MADISON, Wis.—After five years of defeat the state fire marshal's office has finally secured the conviction of Lewis J. Volk and Sam Gould for burning down their own clothing store in order to collect the insurance and they were sentenced to three years at Waupun each.

Deputy Fire Marshal William E. Finnegan had charge of the prosecution that finally resulted in convictions.

The story of the final convictions with the preceding manipulations is unique in the history of the state fire marshal's office now in charge of Insurance Commissioner W. Stanley Smith.

Gould and Volk ran little "hole in the wall" establishments in Oshkosh, then both came to Fremont, where they formed a partnership to go into the clothing business. Then rented a building and then bought 125 suits and 25 overcoats from a merchant in the same town claiming that their goods from Chicago had been delayed.

Then they took out insurance for $4,700. Then it was charged at the trial the goods started to disappear. Much of it had been purchased on notes and were given back because the business was found to be "rotten."

Then came the fire in 1918. The place was entirely destroyed. It was claimed at the trial that Volk telephoned to Gould, who was at Oshkosh, "We've had our fire," and laughed.

The insurance company refused to pay for the loss pending an investigation. Volk and Gould took their case to the circuit court and won. The company appealed to the supreme court and Gould and Volk won again.

Then came the disclosure of new evidence and the two men were finally convicted several days ago.

DEPORT ALL NEGROES FOLLOWING ATTACK UPON WHITE WOMAN

RALEIGH, N. C.—Governor Morrison Friday ordered state troops to Mitchell county, where an aged white woman was attacked Wednesday by a negro.

POLLY HARRISON, ARTHUR GROSSKOPF PAY LIQUOR FINES

Arthur Grosskopf was fined $500 and $15 costs by County Judge Brindley on a charge of illegal possession of liquor. The case is the outgrowth of a raid by federal and state prohibition agents on the saloon at the northwest corner of Third and Vine streets, when a tank for holding hooch was discovered built in a brick wall. Polly Harrison, alleged to have been dispensing liquor on the second floor of the same premises, and who was caught by agents an hour after the first raid, pleaded guilty to charges of illegal sale and illegal possession of liquor and was fined $100 by Judge Brindley.

NORMAL STUDENTS LISTEN TO LECTURE ON TUBERCULOSIS

Miss Mary Hard of the Anti-Tuberculosis association of Wisconsin addressed the students of the La Crosse Normal school yesterday morning at the regular assembly hour. Miss Hard spoke of the work of the association.

"One of the long discussed problems is the cure for tuberculosis," she said. "Almost every one knows that the proper place for a person suffering from this disease is in a sanitarium. Rest plus fresh air, plus pure food, plus sunshine, equals the cure for this sickness. Every one dreads this malady and yet they take no steps to prevent themselves from being exposed to it and contracting it."

"As future school teachers you students should know a great deal about the ravages of tuberculosis and how to take steps to prevent it. You can prevent this disease by teaching children to live the right way. Make right living a permanent habit with children and they will always adhere to it."

Miss Hard told in detail about the Modern Health Crusade movement that was being sponsored by the Wisconsin association. She claims that it is one of the best things ever originated for children. The crusade movement put children on their honor to live according to certain rules. After a year of faithful living they are given an award or a title. The importance of the title increases each year until the fourth year. It is believed that after the fourth year the habits of right living will be a part of the children and that they will need no rulings after that time. Miss Hard explained the system and stated that it had met with great success wherever it had been tried. She urged the students of the school to follow the plan when they became instructors.

Miss Doulse Miller, Prof. Joseph Leeder and Clyde Russell sang "Praise Ye" from Attilla by Verdi. They were accompanied by Miss Florence Fox-well.

FIFTY-TWO DEAD IN TWO MONTHS' TOLL OF AUTO ACCIDENTS

Twenty-four Reported Killed in July and Twenty-eight in August

OVER 600 SERIOUS MISHAPS REPORTED FOR SAME PERIOD

Reckless Driving Responsible for Large Share of Accidents

MADISON, Wis.—Fifty-two people were killed in highway accidents in Wisconsin during July and August, the state highway department announced on Thursday.

There were 24 killed during July and 28 during August, according to the report. There were a total number of 304 serious accidents reported in July and 302 in August. A total of 1,017 people were involved in the July accidents and 1,139 in the August accidents. July saw 78 seriously injured and 273 with slight injuries. During August there were 79 seriously hurt and 262 slightly injured.

The July accidents included 204 on straight roads; 54 on curves and corners; 27 on cross roads; 12 at railroad crossings and seven in other places.

The August accidents numbered 193 on straight roads, five at curves; 19 at cross roads; 13 at railroad crossings; 13 at hills and nine at other places.

Causes of the accidents follow:

Reckless driving	140	122
Improper lights	18	13
Broken car mechanism	26	16
Intoxicated drivers	21	11
Narrow bridges and culverts	15	5
Driver falling asleep	3	2
Weather conditions	6	14
Parking or driving on wrong side	10	11
Passing other cars	35	59
Loose gravel or sand	7	5
Miscellaneous causes	23	53

The reports do not include all of the traffic mishaps that occur in the state but are a summary of the most serious.

The compilation is one of a number that will be given out by the state highway department. For several months the state highway department has been at work on a compilation of the number of foreign cars that come to the state of Wisconsin during the season now closing.

NEW CITIZENS REVERE MEMORY OF LINCOLN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Of the thousands of pilgrims who annually visit the tomb of Abraham Lincoln, the most enthusiastic and most welcome, according to H. W. Fay, custodian, are the immigrants who are just about to become American citizens.

Crowned heads, ambassadors, famous generals, prime ministers and presidents come by the score to lay wreaths on the sarcophagus of the martyred president. And men and women from more humble walks of life come too.

"Many times a year the foreign born coal miner comes to Springfield from neighboring towns to take out his first citizenship papers," said Mr. Fay, "and he is the most reverent visitor of all. I like to tell men like that about the martyred president."

There has never been any disorder at the tomb within the memory of the present custodian. "Everybody who comes here is quiet and reverent," he said. "I have never had to ask a visitor to remove his hat."

CHURCH LOSS IN OMAHA NEAR MILLION MARK

CHICAGO, Ill.—The known loss of the Methodist Episcopal church in the Japanese earthquake was raised to $800,000 when officials of the board of foreign missions received a cable from Bishop Herbert Welch, who reported the losses in Tokyo and Yokohama at $640,000.

ELECTED

Mrs. Belle W. Bliss, Baraboo, Wis., has been elected national president of the Women's Relief Corps. Her choice was unanimous.

W. OF W. PLAN EXTENSION OF PHILANTHROPIC ACTIVITIES

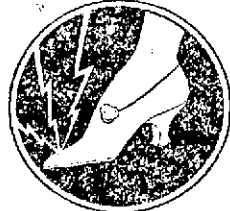

OMAHA, Neb.—Expansion of the philanthropic activities of the Woodmen of the World through the establishment of an old people's home for members of the order near San Antonio, Texas, has been announced by W. A. Fraser, sovereign commander of the society.

The new home will be located, it is believed, close to the Woodmen of the World war memorial sanatorium recently erected near San Antonio for members of the fraternal organization afflicted with tuberculosis.

"The new home," said Mr. Fraser, "will be built as soon as suitable plans can be drawn up. Old men of the society whose families have died, married, moved away or lost interest in them will be cared for in the home. Every state in which the Woodmen have members will endow and maintain a certain number of rooms in the home and these suites will be ignored after the state. The old men will spend their last days in the most pleasant surroundings in a home atmosphere."

The father of Charles Dickens was sent to a debtors' prison in London.

FACTS and FASHIONS

FOR LA CROSSE MEN

Our Opening Announcement for Fall, 1923

presents no radical departure from proven policies. It is intended, rather, to emphasize the fact that this season, as heretofore, any man who would maintain the appearance of a gentleman, by wearing good clothes—good in fit, fabric, tailoring and style—can buy such garments for less money here than anywhere else.

Being a strictly cash store both enables us and requires us to give greater values than others. It enables us to do so because buying for cash (and in tremendous quantities for seven great stores) brings us the lowest wholesale prices, and selling for cash relieves us of all charge account expenses and losses—cuts down our overhead and makes it possible for us to operate on a narrower margin.

Being a cash store requires us to give greater values because no man, unless he can save money by so doing, will pay us cash when he can have his purchases charged almost anywhere else. But the vast proportions to which our business has grown affords ample evidence that men who know good clothes and good values appreciate the combination of the two as found here—for cash.

ASTRONOMERS ARE WATCHING FOR TWO VAGRANT SPEEDERS

Comets Discovered Many Years Ago Reported Due for Reappearance

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Astronomers are on the watch for two comets, both discovered many decades ago which speeding over their rather uncertain courses through the skies, are about due for reappearance.

One of these interesting visitors is Di Vico's "long period" comet in 1846, popularly known as the Mexican War comet because just on the outbreak of that conflict, it was observed by Professor W. C. Bond, of the Harvard observatory, on Feb. 20, 1846. Professor P. Di Vico, of Rome, also found the comet independently, with his telescope two days later, and because he officially recorded its coming, his fellow astronomers have given it his name.

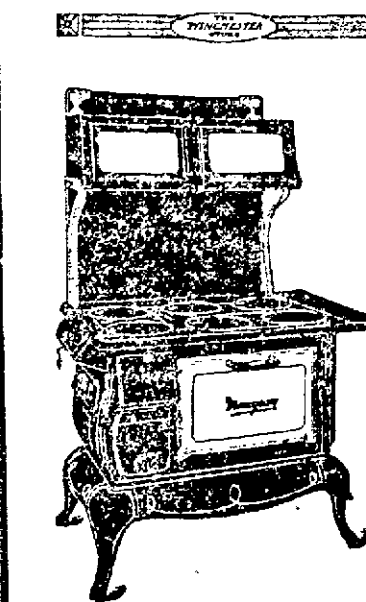

Professor Di Vico observed his comet goddess for two months, when it passed from view. It was reckoned it would reappear in 75-77 years, with a "period of uncertainty" of three years. In 1919 it was within 200,000,000 miles of the earth, somewhere between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter, and the scientists of the skies decided that it might appear to them any time between 1921 and 1925. When it does come, it will not be visible to the man in the street, Harvard College Observatory officials say. Comets, they explain may at any time be thrown completely out of their accustomed course by getting too near the sun or a planet, these bodies acting as to give the strange, or a sort of "kick" to one side or the other.

The second comet that astronomers are on the lookout for this year is that discovered by and named for D'Arrest, who saw it from Leipzig June 27, 1851. It returned in 1857, 1870, 1877, 1890, 1897 and 1910. It was due in 1917 but the telescope failed to find it. Astronomical calculations showed that it might be seen, "by telescope only," on twenty-five or thirty dates of 1925 but the astronomers of the world who report their discoveries to the Harvard observatory as a clearing house of information, have not noticed it as yet.

Its schedule calls for visibility in various parts of the heavens with the aid of high powered lenses on October 2, 13 and 18.

The Harvard observatory does not specialize in investigating comets partly because its location does not lend itself to such observations as well as do those of other astronomical stations in the United States and Europe. In this country, the observatories which may be said to make comets a specialty are Lick observatory of the University of California, Yerkes at Williams Bay, Wisconsin, and the naval observatory at Washington.

MEN AND AFFAIRS IN WASHINGTON

BY ROBERT T. SMALL
(Special Correspondent of the Tribune)
WASHINGTON, D. C.—The grand old slogan of "Boys, get the money," is once more about to ring through the political halls. The "boys" are coming to Washington next Thursday and the grand old money marshal of the Grand Old Party, one Fred W. Upham, permanently of Chicago, but occasionally of London, Paris and Stockholm, particularly of that dear Stockholm, will be with them. Fred and the boys are going to the White House to pay their respects to President Coolidge, and also one and all—to tell the president that he must accept their support for renomination and possible election.

The "boys" constitute the ways and means committee of the republican national committee. William Boyce Thompson served in the last campaign as chairman of the committee, with Henry Hays as executive officer. The "boys" were short a little more than a million and a half dollars of the money spent under the direction of Will H. Hays in 1920 and Marshal Upham has been doing his darndest ever since 1920 to try to get the "boys" up to an even start for 1924. The task has not yet been accomplished, but maybe it will be in Washington next week.

The difficulty with Will Hays was that he did not belong to the "you and I are practical men club." He had an idea that you could finance a campaign by refusing to accept any contributions in excess of $1,000. He also thought such a policy would make a great hit with the people, so perhaps after all that was why Mr. Harding got a plurality of something like seven million votes. But the Hays policy also left the party in a bankrupt condition. Mr. Hays from whom the "boys" usually had got all the way from $25,000 to $250,000 were dumfounded when they were told they couldn't give more than a round thousand. They insisted upon offering more, but Will Hays said "No, my good men, we cannot take your money." Of course, he couldn't place any restrictions upon what the state committees could ask. But in any event when Will left the party and the deficit all at the same time, it was not an altogether easy task to get the wealthier men and concerns to come through with more money. They had given the thousand that was required of them, the campaign was over, and the whole subject was extremely cold.

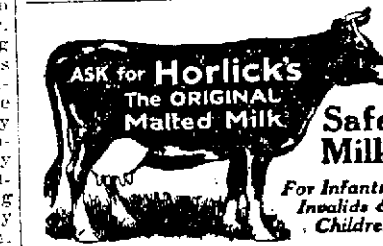

Now, however, another campaign is in the offing, and there is every indication that the G. O. P. is going to have a real fight on its hands. Therefore in the strings that are beginning to stir it may be easier to separate the liberal givers from their extra thousands. In any event Fred and the "boys" hope so and they are going to outline the battle at their Washington conference.

This conference is in a sense the opening gun of the new campaign. It is the first formal national gathering of the politicians. Each state in the union is represented on the ways and means committee. The reports these men will bring to Washington will be a valuable index to the trend of political opinion the country over.

That they will be eagerly scanned at the White House goes without saying.

Mrs. Harding's decision to take an apartment in Washington is in line with the determination she and the late president had reached to live here when his term in the White House should have ended. When the writer told the first story of the plans of the Hardings there came a vigorous denial from Marion, which Mr. Harding, for obvious reasons, sanctioned. The denial was justified in that Mr. Harding had no intention whatever of deserting Marion entirely. If he had lived he probably would have spent two or three weeks there each year. But his headquarters' home would have been in Washington, just as Mrs. Harding is going to take her place in the future life of the capital.

The status of Mrs. Harding in official society will be unique. She is the only widow of a president within recollection to make her home in Washington. It is true that there are two of her predecessors in the White House living here—Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Taft—but Mrs. Taft has her own niche as wife of the chief justice of the supreme court, and Mrs. Wilson has been only too glad to follow her husband into the social obscurity compelled by his illness.

Mrs. Harding loves Washington society. She has been more of a dominant influence in it than were either Mrs. Wilson or Mrs. Taft. Even Mrs. Roosevelt, who now resides at Oyster Bay, did not take so active a part in the affairs of the presidency as did Mrs. Harding. The latter has a keen interest in politics and while she was mistress of the White House senators and members of the cabinet found her alert on every subject of domestic or international interest.

The question of Mrs. Harding's place of precedence at the state social affairs at the White House and elsewhere in the capital, is certain to come up sooner or later, although of course she is expected to spend a quiet period of mourning. Strictly speaking it is probably true that Mrs. Harding will have no official status, but as she was too well-liked and was too much a part of the present fabric of government in Washington to be left out of all of the more important social affairs of the future, the question of placing her at table or in line at the various big receptions must be met and tactfully dealt with by the powers that be.

There have been no cabinet changes since Mr. Harding died, and on the surface, none seem to be in immediate prospect. Mrs. Harding was but a few months ago the mistress of the cabinet circle. Will not the ladies of the cabinet feel like including her in all of their official affairs? Mrs. Harding also was exceedingly popular in the senate set. And here again her presence at social affairs will be eagerly sought.

Taken altogether, the presence of Mrs. Harding in Washington, and the possibilities of her salon, are quite the most interesting things to which Washington ever has had to look forward.

BRAIN WORK POORLY PAID
GERMAN YOUTHS SPURN IT
GENEVA—Intellectual occupations in low-exchange countries like Germany seem destined to extinction, and the younger generation is turning to more remunerative manual work, according to evidence before a League of Nations Commission, now investigating this question.

Teachers, writers and journalists are so poorly paid, no new recruits can be found. The commission, in which John Henry Wigmore, Dean of North Western University, is active, may ask American colleges for aid.

QUAKES FELT IN PERSIA
TEHRAN, Persia.—Severe earthquakes again have been felt at Kerman, where much damage was done, and smoke is reported to be issuing from a mountain near Bajrud.

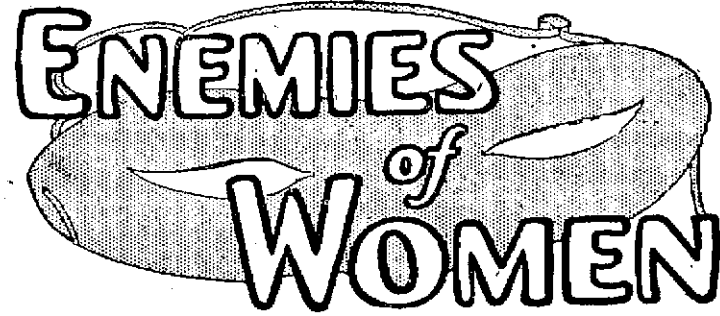

RECORD ENROLLMENT IN HIGH SCHOOL IS SHOWN BY BOOKS

The present enrollment at the La Crosse High School is the largest for this time of the year in the history of the institution. The south side High school has a total of 1331 students, while a large number of freshmen and sophomores are being taken care of at the Junior High on the north side.

The "freshies" head the list with a total of 424 while the Juniors follow with 339, the seniors next with 297, and the sophomores bring up the rear with 271. One of the reasons for the record enrollment is the large number of students coming in from outside schools. The High school building was not in its usual good condition during the summer and the halls and rooms present a very neat appearance. The students are again putting into use the system of hall duty tried last year and which proved very successful. There are two students on hall duty on every floor each period in the day and the result is that the plan works two-fold, giving protection to the student body and acting as a reception committee to strangers visiting the building.

Leatrice Joy and Jack Holt enjoyed to the full recently that most enjoyable of human experiences, turning the tables. For to them was afforded the privilege of standing behind the camera and criticizing a man who many a time and oft had stood in the same place and criticized them.

The filming of "Hollywood" which is on view at the Rivoli theater this week, was the occasion and most particularly the sequence in this screen novelty where Cecil E. DeMille "taps" ten in person.

"I think he needs a little more powder," Mr. Holt suggested.

"He's just a wee bit, well, or—conscience, don't you think?" asked Miss Joy.

And so on. But they reckoned without their host. For before he became a director Cecil E. DeMille was a successful stage actor and no amount of off-stage conversation could deflect him from the business at hand as the picture proves.

CASINO TODAY

There is something in the thrumming of a guitar, in the warm human notes of a thrilling love song that awakens in most of us a quick response to the strong appeal of adventure and romance. That is the kind of story which awaits you at the Casino theater, "A California Romance" will be shown for two days, starting today. This Fox production starring John Gilbert, tells of the stirring days when California was ceded to the United States.

To give the story in detail would spoil the enjoyment of those who will see it on the screen.

DUSTIN FARNUM COMING IN VIVID WESTERN DRAMA
What promises to be a real treat is Dustin Farnum's latest picture,

"Three Who Paid," which will be shown at the Casino theater Sunday. From the story, the picture play promises to be "full of action and rapid fire interest." The role of Riley Sinclair, around whom the play revolves, is well suited to Mr. Farnum. Bessie Love, the popular leading woman, is playing a dual role in this new, gripping, western photoplay.

Frank Campeau, who is well known to screen fans, again appears as a villain in support of Farnum.

"TRIMMED IN SCARLET"
That there is ever a new angle to a story age-old is clearly shown in "Trimmed in Scarlet," now playing at the Majestic theater. It is the story of child love for its mother and the equal return of the mother's love for the child. Yet the triteness of such a theme is ironed out smoothly by Jack Conway, who directed the picture. Kathryn Williams in the role of the mother, originally played by Maxine Elliott in William Hurlbut's Broadway stage success, displays all the versatility and emotional ability that have made her a screen favorite.

GOOSE SANDWICHES REPLACE RED HOTS AT CATTLE SHOW

Watertown to Advertise its Most Famous Products at Holstein Celebration

WATERTOWN, Wis.—The "hot dog" sandwich and the tall glass of red pop usually to be had at cattle fairs and exhibitions will give way to something novel in the way of refreshments at the coming Dairy Day and National Homestead Holstein celebration to be held at Watertown, Oct. 16, according to plans of the management.

A Watertown goose sandwich and a glass of refreshing Holstein milk passed out free to dairy day visitors on street corners will give the city a new form of advertising for its most famous products, it is claimed.

Speakers of national reputation have been invited to address the visitors expected for the event, the management announces. These include Agricultural Commissioner J. R. Jones, Madison Wis., D. D. Aitken, former president of the National Holstein association; Former Governor E. L. Philipp, Milwaukee; John M. Kelley, vice-president of the National Holstein association, Baraboo, Wis., and J. P. Klodian, president of the Homestead club of America.

Other well known visitors will include Frank T. Price, editor of the Holstein World; Robert Hager, one of the best known cattle judges; A. J. Glover, editor Hoard's Dairyman; Arthur Collentine, dairy expert, Wisconsin College of Agriculture; Barney Kelley, a leading New York state dairyman, and many county agents from all parts of the middle west.

The management promises one of the most unique and picturesque dairy parades staged in the history of dairy shows.

Other features of the celebration will include coronation of a dairy queen elected by votes of dairymen of Wisconsin, Midway attractions, Mrs. Pitke in a bull-throwing exhibition, chicken picking contest, Holstein-fed baby show, grand ball and beauty show.

On Oct. 17 will be held the National Homestead sale, under the auspices of the Homestead club of America.

FAMILY HONORS RAGPICKER

BAY CITY, Mich.—Father of 33 children, the oldest of whom is 67 years old and the youngest a babe of 14 months, is the claim to distinction of Charles L. Lucius, a ragpicker who is a descendant of two Dutch generals, and successfully a rancher, a guerrilla fighter, Indian fighter, and member of both the rebel and union armies during the civil war. Of the 33 children who have called Lucius father, the list includes four sets of twins, one set by his present, or fourth wife, and the others by a second wife. Lucius bears his 61 years lightly. He can do the accepted "daily dozen" exercises while the average person is making up his mind to start. With ease he can rap his knuckles on the floor without bending at the knees.

MANY FILIPINOS OUT OF WORK
MANILA.—The Insular labor bureau has issued a statement saying more than 1,000,000 laborers are available in the islands, not counting females, of whom there are about 252,000 available for work. Many laborers have emigrated to Hawaii in the hope of finding better employment conditions in the sugar industry.

SWEET LITTLE PET

Miss Corliss Flynn, of New York and Havana, makes blase Fifth Avenue turn for another look. She sports a three-months-old honey-bear from South America as a pet.

BIRD'S NEST IN A HAMMOCK

A pair of nature lovers roaming the woods near Gardener, Cal., saw what seemed to be a worm's nest on a tree and one of them knocked it down, whereupon they discovered that it was a humming bird's nest with baby birds in it. The nest was made of material like a hornet's nest and hung by apparently a spider's web, so there was no way to reach it. They cut a piece of burlap about five inches square, tied a string around each of the four corners, then tied the strings to a little branch of the tree and set the tiny nest into the burlap hammock. About this time mother humming bird came near and of all the mean things things she said could not be repeated. They were left expecting to find the babies dead in the morning as it was a cold night, but in the morning they were found in perfectly good condition. Now one little pet fellow gets up early and sits all day on the edge of his hammock and must be poked back into the nest at night. None of them make any fuss now though they have had lots of visitors. The one that swings in the hammock is about the size of a bumble bee. The mother evidently feeds them and hovers them at night, having gotten used to the "hammock."

TROOPS OUST COMMUNISTS

SOFIA.—It is officially announced that Bulgarian troops captured the town of Berkovitzka Wednesday night after a sharp struggle. The communists who were holding the town lost heavily. The government losses were light.

NORMALS NOT ABLE TO MEET DEMANDS FOR NEW TEACHERS

School Facilities Inadequate to Train Instructors Needed in State Says Callahan

MADISON, Wis.—Present normal school facilities of Wisconsin are inadequate for the training of teachers needed by the state, John Callahan, state superintendent of schools, said speaking at the joint meeting of the association of the city and county superintendents of Wisconsin meeting in the assembly chamber of the capitol on Thursday.

Due to the inadequacy of the normals, Mr. Callahan said that the work of training teachers is partially shifted to counties and cities. Special classes for mentally defective children are now in practically every city of the state of over 10,000 population, according to Dr. Elizabeth Woods, in charge of the schools for subnormal children in Wisconsin.

MUST GROW NEW MUSTACHE

TO GET AWAY FROM GERMANY
HAMBURG.—A lost mustache is forcing a Copenhagen man to take a prolonged vacation in Hamburg. The Dane came to Germany wearing an enormous turned-up mustache. His friends joked him about it. People stared at him in the cafes. The Kaiser Wilhelm brand of upper-lip decoration is not popular in the very modern commercial city of Hamburg. It is too intentional.

In desperation the Dane had his mustache shaved off, and found his lot much pleasant until he reached the German border on his way back home. The heavily mustached chap on his passport photograph did not in the least resemble the smooth-faced modern appearing Dane. Passport officials turned him back, and detectives gave him the third degree. In his changed appearance they found resemblance to a famous international swindler. The Dane was too much ashamed of the incident to seek aid from Danish officials, and is now patiently growing a new mustache which will enable him to measure up to his passport photograph.

BOGUS AMERICAN DEGREES EASILY SOLD IN ENGLAND

Britain's Love of Initials After His Name Makes Country Fertile Field

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—The Englishman's love of initials after his name has made this country a fertile field for bogus American colleges, which carry on a sort of correspondence curriculum and supply degrees at five dollars each, according to Dr. George E. Maclean, former president of Iowa university, who has recently been warning multiple Britons against striving for sheepskins from unlearned institutions in the United States.

"I have had a steady stream of people coming into this office with the degree 'B. D.' (Bachelor of Divinity)," he said. "Until they interviewed me they had no idea that the money paid for their degrees had been obtained from their victims by false pretenses."

"I know an English clergyman who in two years got the degree of B. D. and D. Litt. simply by correspondence. There is one of these colleges incorporated in Illinois, that has tricked hundreds of English students into parting with considerable sums of money for ineffective looking diplomas which are entirely worthless from an educational point of view. The university exists only in name. I have never yet heard of anyone who took one of its correspondence courses and failed to get a degree. Clergymen who were up late to the value of a university degree, are the most often gullible."

Throughout England college graduates flaunt their degrees in a manner unknown in America. Often a man's calling cards will contain the initials "B. A." or "M. A." after his name, and clergymen have these degrees, if they possess them, printed on the signboards outside their churches. College degrees are held by proportionately fewer people in England than in America, and more people are therefore taken in by fraudulent degrees.

DOG'S SILENT PLEA

FREES HIS MASTER GREAT PAIN. Mont.—Tony Bank had no attorney, so his faithful shepherd dog pleaded for him.

Tony is a sheep herder and when he faced a judge on a charge of insanity, he was too overcome with shame to speak. But the dog stood on his hind legs and placed his forepaws on the legal furniture, as though in dumb plea for his master.

The court was so pleased with the dog that he let the man off with a lecture.

The first exhibition of a practical electric tramway was made at Berlin, 1879.

Talked Like a Rebel and Admitted It; British Rewarded Him With M. P. Seat

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON.—"I am a rebel against the present system of society."

The man who made this revolutionary speech was Robert Smillie,

ROBERT SMILLIE

a little mild-mannered, mild-mannered man whose hair and mustache are going grizzled and in whose back is the stoop of the miner. He was talking to a crowd of people at West

Sleekburn. He continued: "Why? One of your neighbors, the Duke of Northumberland possesses 169,000 acres of land. In 1918 he got $410,000 in royalty rents from the coal hewed out on that land."

"The Duke of Hamilton owns 56,000 acres and draws $565,000 in royalty rents. This man's predecessor was Duke of Hamilton when I was 25, working as a coal cutter."

"I bent and stooped and worked all day and got 20 cents a ton for the coal I cut. And the duke sat in his palace and got 20 cents for every ton I cut."

"At that time he was drawing down $600,000 a year and my fellow coal miners found it impossible to get food and clothing for their little ones on the wages they were paid. I could not believe any God or Creator had fore-ordained any such state of affairs. I found the men themselves were to blame and I have been a rebel against such a system ever since."

Such a speech in America would probably have landed Smillie before a jury. In England it landed him in Parliament for Morpeth division by the thumping majority of 7000 over the candidate of one of the old political parties. Smillie (pronounced Smille-y) ran as a labor candidate. Born at Belfast in 1852, he got his first job in a Glasgow shipbuilding yard and then became a miner, working 16 years underground. Then his pals made him an officer of their local miners union and he climbed in that body until he became the supreme head of the powerful miners union of Great Britain.

And all the members of the old parties were surprised when he got up in the Commons and made his maiden speech. It wasn't revolutionary and it wasn't red. He talked about the necessity of settling the men on the land, so that Britain could keep some of its best brains and brains from emigrating to other countries.

Even old enemies applauded the sentiment and laughed at his satire.

JAPS BUY MANY TRACTORS

TOKIO.—Tractors, chiefly American made, are supplanting hand labor on the farms of Western Japan. There are now 13,000 of these on farms in Okayama alone, where farm labor is scarce. The government gives a small subsidy to assist in the purchase of these machines, and it is contemplating a larger one in line with its policy of assisting agriculture with a view to making Japan self-supporting in the matter of food.

Colored people own 600,000 homes in the United States.

MAJESTIC BREAKS RECORD

CHEAP LOOKING BAGGAGE ADVISED FOR AMERICANS

COLOGNE. —If Americans would carry less expensive-looking baggage they would not have so much of it stolen. This was the advice a Cologne baggage-smasher gave to a New York woman who was bewailing the loss of a suitcase which contained her passport and travelers' checks.

"Leave all your high-priced bags and cases and boxes at home when you come to Europe," the baggage-smasher advised. "Buy yourself cheap cases and bags. Get those which look as if they were made in Europe for the use of second or third class passengers. Wash off them all the creaser pasters and high-priced hotel labels. You will never lose baggage of that sort. Furthermore, you will find your hotel bills are much less. Rates in many European hotels are fixed in accordance with the appearance of the travelers' baggage and attire."

"SMALL TOWN" JUSTICE SUED FOR $100 INJUSTICE

CHICAGO, Ill. —Exasperated at what he termed high handed methods of small town justices, Wilbur Rogers filed suit here for $100 damages against Justice George W. Carr of Maywood. Rogers declared he had been arrested in Maywood a week ago and that after appearing for trial twice, each time the arresting officer failing to appear, Rogers asked Justice Carr to dismiss the case and the justice refused. He filed suit, he said, to "make an example" of ridiculous methods of suburban justices.

IDENTIFY MUTILATED BODY FOUND IN SHEBOYGAN RIVER

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. —A badly mutilated body taken from the Sheboygan river was identified as that of Ernest Oblach, an Austrian, who has been a resident of Sheboygan for twenty-three years. When the body was found the wounds on the head caused Coroner Vanzanten to suspect murder, because they appeared to have been made with an axe. It is now certain that he committed suicide and the wounds were inflicted by the propeller of a steamer. He was last seen Sept. 15 and was badly intoxicated. Jack Oblach of West Allis, is his only relative in this country.

CHINA'S SCHOOL SYSTEM PRIMITIVE

While education in China gives the appearance of being well developed along the beaten paths traveled by tourists it is in the interior and remote rural districts that the system is primitive and inadequate in every way. The children are as eager to absorb knowledge as those of any other race, but consciousness of the need of good schools seems not to have been awakened in the minds of the people. In one large community of 300,000 Chinese there are but 50 schools. Of the 100,000,000 children in this section, but 3,000 attend school.

Fuchien, the Chinese city which adjoins Harbin, is settled with people who may safely be classed as pioneers. The Russian city is well provided with schools and the influence of the more modern civilization is easily discernible in the architecture of the Chinese school buildings, in the arrangement of classes and in the subjects taught. Fuchien has living in its limits about 150,000 people, and its school system is a step in advance of what is encountered inside the great wall and outside of the almost cosmopolitan cities. Subjects taught are arithmetic, morals instead of classics, Chinese history, the geography of China, to which is added world geography in the last year of attendance, physics, drawing and model making, an elementary commercial course and band music. For the 300 boys in this school there are 12 teachers. English is the only foreign language taught but teachers are difficult to obtain and it is not always included.

Idaho Prunes
for Breakfast tomorrow

The sweet-tart flavor of the Big Blue Plum, known as the Idaho Prune, makes it an unequalled delicacy as a breakfast fruit.

Its pleasing sharpness is an appetizing stimulant. Its essential mineral salts make it an aid to digestion and a prop to health. Its high percentage of natural sugar gives it unusual food value.

There's as much difference in flavor and goodness between a fresh, ripe Idaho Prune and the old-fashioned dried boarding-house variety as there is between a fresh, juicy steak and a piece of dried beef.

"The Woman in Bronze" is Finished Production and Draws a Full House

Margaret Anglin and a splendid cast in "The Woman in Bronze," a finished drama played in superb style, drew a full house at the La Crosse theater Thursday night and gave local playgoers a treat which they will not soon forget.

Involving a story of an artist's home which is broken up by a young woman who has been living as a ward in the household, Miss Anglin in the role of the deserted wife plays a part admirably adapted to the emotional and dramatic powers which have made her famous on the legitimate stage. Her interpretation was the work of a real actress and she carried the audience with her through all the heart-rending scenes which feature the play.

Boyd Irwin, in the role of the repentant husband gave splendid support to Miss Anglin and was particularly compelling in the climax when the heart-broken wife forgave him that he might return home and take up again his work on a masterpiece. The scene in which he awakes to a realization of the inspiration he finds in his own wife was thrilling and there were few dry eyes in the house at its close.

The cast throughout was good and the costumes and scenery added a finishing touch to a play which undoubtedly will be a number among the season's best productions here.

NAVY GRID ELEVEN TO PLAY ON COAST NEW YEAR'S DAY

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—The navy football team will be permitted to go to California to meet the intercollegiate champions of the Pacific coast on New Year's day, it was officially announced on Thursday by Rear Admiral Henry H. Wilson, superintendent of the naval academy. The announcement is by way of acceptance of an invitation from the Pasadena Tournament of Roses association. The entire main squad of about thirty players will make the trip.

The midly addition warriors have voluntarily sacrificed their Christmas vacation to bring about a contest between representative teams of the east and west coast.

From the standpoint of the academy authorities, it is stated, that an additional incentive of making the trip was furnished by the fact that it will afford opportunity for many naval people on the west coast to witness their football pets in action. With the formal acceptance of the invitation plans were launched to perfect all necessary details for the trip, which has the approval of Secretary Denby.

SEARCH FOR WOMAN WHO MARRIED GIRL DISGUISED AS MAN

CHICAGO, Ill.—Search is being made by Milwaukee for Mrs. Sophie Kosinski, who is charged by Barbara Gayen, a factory girl here, with giving her as a man and married her in the Kalle, Ill., several weeks ago. Chicago detectives left Thursday night for Milwaukee, where the woman fled after Barbara discovered her sex, according to the police.

When Barbara found Alexander Kosinski, the woman's husband, police said, kissing her "husband" frequently, she discovered the ruse, she told police. She said Mrs. Kosinski called herself Leo Derzinski and was her sister for some time before they married.

GOVERNORS TO MEET

Prohibition Enforcement Expected to be Chief Concern of Conference October 20

MADISON, Wis.—By The Associated Press.—Governors of the states will meet with President Coolidge at Washington, D. C., on Saturday, October 20, for a conference, presumably affecting prohibition enforcement. Miles C. Riley, secretary of the governors' conference, announced here Friday. The state executives plan to leave for the White House in a body after their annual conference to be held at West Baden Springs, Indiana, October 17 to 19.

President Coolidge Thursday in a telegram to the governors' conference secretary, asked whether the executives would be able to complete their deliberations at West Baden Springs "so as to attend a conference at Washington on Saturday, October 20."

Mr. Riley replied that the conference would be able to meet with the president on Saturday afternoon.

While there was no announcement by President Coolidge of the object of his conference with the governors, it is taken for granted that prohibition enforcement raised by the Ku Klux Klan may be discussed.

Governor Al Smith of New York, who signed the first bill repealing a state prohibition enforcement law, has advised that he will be unable to attend the conference.
